Mission Critical Partners CEO, Kevin Murray, Voted 9-1-1 Industry Alliance Chairman for Consecutive Term

STATE COLLEGE, PA— Mission Critical Partners (MCP) CEO Kevin Murray, was voted Chairman of the 9-1-1 Industry Alliance (9IA) on May 25th by the 9IA executive board. Kevin has held the Chairman position since July 1, 2009 and his new term will expire June 30, 2013. 9IA was created to represent the emergency communications industry in the development of emergency technology infrastructure and policy, for the good of public safety and the public it serves.

“It is an honor to be chosen to serve my second consecutive term as Chairman,” said Kevin. With more than 32 years of experience in the mission critical communications industry, Kevin Murray is a versatile leader with proven success in the development and leadership of an industry-leading public safety mission critical communication business unit. Kevin’s experience includes consultation, operation, supervision, design and implementation of wireless radio, telephone and data networks and systems, as well as planning, design and operations of public safety communications systems. Kevin is dedicated and passionate about working with clients and industry leaders to define and assist in developing and implementing new technology and applications to improve the delivery of public safety services.

About the 9-1-1 Industry Alliance

The 9-1-1 Industry Alliance ("9IA") represents the industry voice of the public safety industry. Established in December 2005 by a group of prominent leaders of the 9-1-1 industry, the Alliance plays an important role as the voice of industry companies on public policy issues impacting 9-1-1 and the emergency response system. It is the Alliance's belief that the expertise of industry leaders can assist public policymakers and government emergency communications professionals as they address complex choices regarding advanced 9-1-1 alternatives in the years ahead.
